ACHO requires their principals, tutors and practitioners listed on the ACHO Professional Practitioner Register to gain a minimum of 12 points per year:

Less than 12 points: We recommend that you should increase your CPD.

12 – 30 points: You should be aware of major developments.

30 – 45 points: You will be developing new skills and updating your existing knowledge.

45+ points: You will be fully up to date and developing an expert level of knowledge and skills.

How to claim your CPD Points:

Keep track of your activity during your practitioner listing year and then when you renew, complete the form on the next page and your CPD points will be included on your records.

CPD points recognise your level of professional development in the year. Therefore, activities and qualifications from previous years cannot be included.

Please note that CPD is not related to insurance or recognised treatments.

To obtain insurance or add recognised treatments to your membership you will need to send copies of your certificates to your insurer.

When you undertake an activity that qualifies for CPD points, keep some evidence in a file, it may be an attendance certificate, a note that you read a particular book or a ticket from a conference.

CPD is a self-certificated programme, based on the ethical and professional standards that all members subscribe to, however each year we select a number of CPD claims at random and request evidence.
